

CASA EVE

A CONSIDERED CITY STAY / OTTAWA

A little guide to settling in, finding your rhythm,
and discovering a few good things along the way.

Public design sample. Interior imagery and property-related content are illustrative. No actual property access details or credentials are included.

The little essentials.

Thoughtful instructions turn unfamiliar details into everyday ease. These sample layouts show how a commissioned guide could organise the host's verified information.

STAY CONNECTED

Wi-Fi details travel privately.

Your host shares network information through the guest channel. No network name or password is printed in this public sample.

THE FIRST CUP

A slower start. A proper cup.

The cafetiere and mugs are on the open kitchen shelf. You will find ground coffee in the labelled jar beside the kettle. The digital edition shows the sample brewing steps.

COMFORT, YOUR WAY

Make room for a quiet evening.

The reading lamp switches on at the base. The basket beside the sofa holds a throw for cooler evenings. Please switch the lamp off when you head out.

A THOUGHTFUL STAY

A little consideration goes a long way.

Our sample house is smoke-free indoors. Please keep noise low between 10 p.m. and 8 a.m. and let the host know if anything needs attention.

Illustrative instruction layouts only. This is not an operational manual for the actual property.

Find your kind of afternoon.

A good local edit makes room for different kinds of days. These public attractions illustrate the approach; no travel time from a private property is implied.

FRESH AIR / AN UNHURRIED WALK

Rideau Canal & Capital Pathway

Begin with the official pathway information and choose a waterside route that suits the season and your pace. Check current closures and conditions before heading out.

ART / A SLOWER AFTERNOON

National Gallery of Canada

Leave room in the day for art. Browse what's on and use the official visitor pages to plan around current admission, hours and accessibility information.

Until next time.

Have a last look for personal belongings, check your host's departure message, and let them know about anything that needs attention. A commissioned guide uses the actual checkout arrangements.
